A BRIGHT SIDE TO BATHROOMS

London's West One Bathrooms will facilitate any bathroom design whim.

"WHATEVER THE CLIENT WANTS, THE CLIENT GETS. WE CAN SOURCE JUST ABOUT ANYTHING FROM ANYWHERE." - DUNCAN WATERS, MD

Tired of stepping into that passé powder room? Want a more luxurious lavatory that slams the door in the face of drab utilitarianism? Look no further than West One Bathrooms. Serving up luxury since the early 60s, this exciting group of individuals has long been regarded as Europe's most illustrious and innovative supplier of bespoke bathrooms. More than just any old bathroom outfitter, the family business offers a smorgasbord of scintillating styles that let you wash your hands of that run-of-the-mill restroom and step into something more respectable and refined.

We sat down with Managing Director Duncan Waters, whose father founded the company in Brixton in 1962, to chat about what sets West One Bathrooms apart from the rest. First and foremost, as Waters put it, "Whatever the client wants, the client gets. We can source just about anything from anywhere." As a boutique firm supplying high-wealth individuals on a global scale with the ability to source the latest products from the world's leading manufacturers of luxury bathroom pieces, West One advances no less than the full array of luxurious styles to satisfy your tastes. Whether you are looking for that Eclectic tub, Duetto bidet, or just some contemporary Beaubourg brassware to give your bathroom that extra shine, West One has the stock. But don't just take our word for it. Take a day off to visit one of their ten showrooms throughout London and the South East, each of which has its own style and is jam-packed with one-of-a-kind products and accessories such as the singing toilet or golden falcon bath faucet we lit upon in the Mayfair showroom.

But these products aren't the only things that impressed us about West One. In addition to offering exclusive access to the world's most celebrated luxury styles, they also give you design experience centred around intimacy, convenience, and specificity. With a wealth of experience, they offer a professional design service to help you draft your dream bathroom every step of the way. Trained to plan any type of bathroom irrespective of size or shape, the expert designers of West One Bathrooms are on standby to offer you unparalleled advice throughout the entire process. Furthermore, if you're happy with your bathroom as it is and just want to touch up that little detail that stands in the way of achieving your ideal aesthetic, West One's design team has the tools for that, too. As Waters told us, to our surprise, "We still have many bespoke pieces dating from as far back as the 1970s and we can custom make and custom finish anything from rubbish bins to coat racks." Thinking of gold for the handles, or precious crystal for the soap dish, they'll have you covered. And if you're more inclined to the modern line of things, perhaps the carbon fibre tub currently on the lower floor of West One's Mayfair showroom will tickle your design buds. It's light enough to lift. Now there is something you don't see every day.
